DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-31 are pending in the instant application and are subject to the following restriction requirement.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions that are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-30, drawn to methods of preparing a modified biological element having modified biological and/or physiochemical properties, the biological elements themselves and use of such modified biological elements in gene therapy applications.

Group II, claim(s) 31, directed to the use of a polymer-modified biological element for treatment of oil pollutants.

Group III, claim(s) 31, directed to the use of a polymer-modified biological element for delivery of pesticides to pathogens in the agricultural industry.

The inventions listed as Groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: PCT Rule 13.2 requires that unity of invention exists only when the shared same or corresponding technical feature is a contribution over the prior art. The inventions listed as Groups I-III share as a common technical feature a modified biological element wherein the biological element is covalently linked to a multivalent polymer via multiple covalent linkages and wherein the presence of the polymer confers changed biological and/or physiochemical properties to the biological element. Curiel et al teach adenoviral conjugates that anticipate this common technical feature (U.S. Patent No. 5,521,291 A; see the entire patent). For example, Curiel et al teach an adenovirus conjugate that is capable of forming a complex with a nucleic acid and delivery the nucleic acid into the cytoplasm of a higher eukaryotic cell wherein the adenovirus conjugate comprises an adenovirus bound to an antibody and wherein the antibody is covalently bound to a polycation (e.g. polylysine) having an affinity for nucleic acids. In this example, the antibody is the biological element whose biological and physiochemical characteristics are altered by the covalent attachment of a multivalent polymer (e.g. Figure 1 and the claims; column 13). In addition, the methods of Groups II and III comprise additional methods steps that are not required for, or present in, the method of Group I and thus comprise additional technical features not required for Group I.

As the corresponding technical feature is not a contribution over the art, the identified groups do not relate to a single general inventive concept..

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
